On 30 August 2022, Ambassador Nishimaki received a courtesy call from Dr. Sagoe-Moses, WHO Representative to Namibia, and Dr. Josephine Namboze, WHO Representative to Botswana.

Currently, WHO is dispatching missions to African countries to strengthen their emergency response systems in the event of emergencies such as outbreaks of infectious diseases. During the meeting, Dr. Namboze, who is leading the mission to Namibia, explained about this initiative. Ambassador Nishimaki explained about Japan's provision of COVID-19 vaccine to African countries through the COVAX Facility and the provision of cold-chain equipment to Namibia.
